PARIS, March 2.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The fete in commemoration of the centenary of Victor Hugo's birth terminated today with the ceremony of handing over to the city of Paris, to serve as a Victor Hugo museum, the house in which he for some time lived in the Place des Voges. The weather was superb.

The exercises which took place in the picturesque setting of the historic Place des Voges, with its quaint arcade running beneath the red brick and stone-fronted houses on each of its four sides, were very happily conceived, and a vast crowd gathered with interest to witness the proceedings. A plaster model of Victor Hugo, taken from the bas relief in the "Dream of the Poet," by Sculptor Barreau, stood on a pedestal facing Hugo's house, situated on the corner of the square. It represents the poet sitting in a chair, in his characteristic fashion, and with a lamp at his feet.

Overlooking the monument and facing the house, were erected tribunes for the Senators, Deputies and other distinguished guests of the municipality which organized the fete and defrayed the expenses, the municipal Council having voted an appropriation of £15,000 to carry out the centenary festivities.

The official procession formed at the Hotel de Ville, shortly before 5 o'clock, and marched in the Place des Voges. On the arrival of the procession, the regimental bands played the "Marseillaise," which was followed by the refrain of Hugo's hymn, "Cœu qui feste ma paix," in unison with music by Berlioz by a choir of 1200 voices and the band of the Republican Guards. The vice-president of the municipality, the president of the municipal council, and read an eulogy of Hugo by M. Doussinet, the president of the municipal Council, who was absent on account of the death of his father. A speech was also made by the prefect of the Seine.

The house was handed over to the city of Paris, to be used by the body that organized the fete. The concert was then resumed, a number of pieces based on Hugo's works being heard, including the "Marseillaise," the "Lamentations" to a simple effective air composed by Beethoven. The prettiest feature in the exercises then was presented in the singing of the statues of Victor Hugo, of like size, two by two, the little ones leading and the elder pupils coming last. Boys and girls marched past in alternating couples, the boys carrying the branches and the girls bearing flowers, which they threw at the foot of the monument, some forming wreaths of blossoms and verdure in the center of which was the statue of the poet.

The cortège concluded with girls representing the Muse of Poetry, a young Parisian girl, who, in a change from the usual Muses of the Olympian Pantheon, as the Muse of Labor, deposited a simple bunch of flowers on the pedestal of the statue, the hands meeting in a gesture of the "Crowning of the Muse," composed by Charpentier, the author of the opera of "Louise."

In this by this time grown dark, with the fall of night, there was a sudden fanfare of trumpets. This was the signal for the illumination of the square. Several searchlights were thrown on the house, building up a white light, while on the facade, by a combination of electric lamps, appeared an immense sun of a golden background, holding a sword. At the same time, scrolls bearing the names of the poet's principal works were lighted up, the "Marseillaise," and the railing around the Place des Voges burst into a multi-colored illumination, the lamps being so arranged along the arch and outlines of the architecture as to reproduce scenes from the Alhambra, thus suggesting scenes from Hugo's "Orientales."

The ceremonies concluded at 7 o'clock with the singing of a specially composed cantata by M. Charpentier, and the playing of the "Marseillaise." The Hotel de Ville, the Place des Voges and the neighboring thoroughfares are illuminated tonight and open-air balls are being held.

ROBERT EMMETT'S BIRTHDAY.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Under the auspices of the Clan-na-Gael, the one hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Robert Emmet was celebrated tonight at the Academy of Music. Senator George F. Edmunds, State Senator Victor J. Dowling presided. United States Senator Benjamin Tillman of South Carolina delivered the oration.

Resolutions were adopted condemning England's colonial policy, depreciating the independence of the United States with English nations, and threatening with the Boers, protesting against the United States government's alliance with England, and the United States ports for the fitting-out of vessels in which to ship horses and mules, and pledging the people of Ireland freedom to support in their struggles for freedom.

Senator Tillman was received with great enthusiasm. He said in beginning: "I am not a statesman, and it is probably recently read about, that occurred to me in Washington, but one of your constituents, Mr. W. H. S. Tupper, with his Irish eloquence made me promise to do him on hand unless I was in jail. Now here I am, so take a good look at me, for I am going to jail again."

The Senator then launched into an attack upon England for trampling on the Irish people.

"For eight long centuries the Irish have been trampled on and murdered by the English," said he, "and it may not be true to say that their bleedings and pangs of suffering are Ireland's own sons have been responsible for her conditions today. They make great claims for her away from home, but fail to show their qualities in their own behalf."

Suddenly turning from this subject, he said in strenuous tones: "If being a scoundrel and aping nobility is establishing a system that is akin to England's policy is making Tories of us, or at least the government at Washington has got there, England," continued the Senator. "I am afraid that it is not so, as far as New work in the Philippines is as bad as ours in the Transvaal." Why have we got such a government? There is the truth, my friends, that remains to us, as we have tonight and on other occasions and then go out and vote for those who are still in office. They are not here, are we not here for our institutions, and if we continue this we will go the way of the other republics."

Senator Tillman then said the American people are slaves to partyism, and could get along without a "boss," who, he predicted, in time would betray the country.

"They have done it already," cried a voice in the balcony.

"Yes, and they will do it again," replied the speaker, "but I have something concerning this feature of local politics, but hesitated and said: "No, I'll not get personal. When I get home, I'll tell you something which will make you think you are a pretty sort of Americans."

The Senator concluded with a short speech on Emmet.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The report is current that the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections will decide to investigating the charges made by Senator Tillman of South Carolina against his colleague, McLaurin.

There is before the Committee a resolution providing for an investigation, offered by Mr. Pritchard of North Carolina, the author of the Senate's bill.

McLaurin, Pritchard and their friends of McLaurin are urging the committee to act favorably on the resolution. It is considered doubtful that anything of consequence would come out on investigation, notwithstanding there are those who profess to believe Tillman's charges against McLaurin was well founded.

If there should be an investigation, it probably would not be confined to the alleged improper action of McLaurin but would reach out and lake cognizance of all reports that have been in circulation charging the use of corrupt influences in securing votes for the Spanish treaty.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

FORECAST FOR WEEK.

BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—In accordance with yesterday's decision the Senate will take up the ship subsidy Bill tomorrow, and it will continue to hold its place as the principal business until disposed of. There is, however, a bill of its own at the present time, to press the matter to the exclusion of all other business so that it probably will be laid aside temporarily at different times to permit the consideration of other matters, including Senator Hoar's bill for the protection of the coastwise trade.

The Legislative Appropriation Bill will be reported during the week, and will take precedence of the ship bill in its own right if Senator Cullom, who will have it in charge, decides to ask the Senate to take it up, as he probably will. The subsidy bill will probably be debated for a length of time, as at the last session. A number of speeches on it, however, will be made before it is allowed to go to a vote.

Senator Frye, chairman of the Committee on Commerce, who will have the bill in charge, will explain the bill when it is taken up. Senator Clay will address the Senate from the Democratic point of view, and probably will be followed by Senators Turner, Vest, Mallory and other Democratic Senators. Senator Turner has abandoned his announced intention of reviewing President Pro Tem. Frye's bill, and it is now in the hands of the Senate.

It is the original plan to make the stamp proceedings, and the present indication is that that will not receive any further immediate attention.

The House of Representatives will give most of its time during the present session to postal affairs, beginning tomorrow with the bill placing the rural free-delivery system on the contract basis, and following later with the Postoffice Appropriation Bill. The rural free-delivery measure has aroused much controversy, and there promises to be an active debate with considerable interest as to the plan.

It was the original plan to make the change in the rural-delivery system a feature of the Postoffice Appropriation Bill, but as this would have necessitated a special rule, the proposition was brought forward in a special bill. The debate on that debate on the bill, which is to be taken up, will probably be disposed of, will take about two days.

The Postoffice Appropriation Bill contains items relating to subsidy for fast mail, which are usually fruitful of much discussion. It is expected that the appropriation will occupy all the time of the House, and that the next Friday is set aside for vote claims.

Aside from regular house work, the Republican members hold a second caucus Monday night to consider further the course to be pursued on Cuban reciprocity.

It is a great pity that he can be an American, though one is poor and has to work hard," she said, "than to be an English or Scottish lord or lady. I shall not try to win the title or estate. There are distant cousins still living in England, and I hope to find a place to go to in the estate will go to telephone girl, and am proudest of all of the fact that I was born under the Stars and Stripes."

PIDAL Y MON'S DISTRESS.

MADRID, March 2.—The Heraldos, the Spanish Ambassador to the Holy See, resigned his post because the proposals of Prime Minister Sagasta to reform the Concordat included the suppression of ten bishoprics, ten seminaries, and canons. Sagasta, in his letter to the successor of Señor Pidal y Mon, will resume negotiations on this matter.

At the Churches Yesterday.

Church Loyalty.

REV. DR. S. B. BARNITZ, western secretary of the Board of Home Missions of the English Lutheran Church, resident at the Diocesan House, 16th and Flower streets, this city, yesterday.

Dr. Barnitz has been at the birth of almost every English Lutheran Church on the Coast, and it is just over a year since he came to the handsomest church at Eighth and Flower streets, and this fact figured in the choice of the First Church, this city, yesterday.

He said that people who were guilty of transgressing from the covenant which God made with the people of Israel.

"Some people come out here from the East, where they had their relationships; there are mountains of problems to be removed; there are foothills in the church to be cleared; there are men who have no right to do what we are not called upon to do; to the salvation of the heathen; that mission is a failure; there is unbelief, indifference, failure to accept the promises of Christ; the marching orders of the Lord.

"We do not believe in the unexpected illumination of the Church to do exactly what is desirable, but I am thoroughly convinced that the unrestricted immigration that comes over the Atlantic is as disastrous to this country as the one from across the Pacific. We do not need the Chinese vote, for there is more than the Italian and Hungarian votes come from the lower strata of European society and a factor that ought to be dealt with. And yet the outlook is full of comfort to the church, as far as God's promises to Israel."

God Loves This World.

Rev. C. P. Dorland of the East Los Angeles Congregational Church, preached from John iii. 16. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

He said, in part: "This idea is a revelation to me. The Bible never suggested that God loves us more than the world. For neither saint nor philosopher has ever discovered the fact that God loves us."

The ancients taught that God was angry with man, and only through blood sacrifice could he be appeased; that God was an absentee God, and had left His affairs in the hands of a priesthood; and today many of us think that there is an order of ruling providence among men or any loving hand at the helm of human affairs."

Jesus Christ revealed the fact that God is the common Father of us all, and loves us all. In the parable of the prodigal son Jesus shows how God loves us all. John the Baptist said, "The Father loves the prodigal boy, and because it is like us and we are his children, that the heart of our Father goes out in love."

God's love was manifested in the sending of His Son to reveal to us His Fatherhood, and so our sonship in His image and partake of His nature.

"God loves us, not for what we are, but for what we can be; and He loves us in spite of our prodigal lives."

"Love is measured by the sacrifice it is willing to make for the good of another. Do we not love God? Do we love our own church home the more we love others. Some people lack the desire to make good Christians, expecting the church to grow without doing their part."

Marching Orders.

The Rev. W. W. Logan of the Hill-street Presbyterian Church addressed his congregation yesterday on the subject of foreign missions, taking for his text, "Prepare ye the way of the Lord; make straight in the desert a highway for our God." He said: "It is almost impossible for us to understand the condition of the world as an associationist. The world of the world even a hundred years ago; now, it is but forty-eight years since Dr. Martin Luther King began to begin the work of the church in India and Dr. Nevin, who sits before us in his topic." The Watchword of Progress, and for his text Philippians iii. 12, "Forgetting those things which are behind, I reach forth unto those things which are before." He said:

"The most insidious temptation we are ever confronted with in our career is to halt. Paul faced this temptation again and again, but he never yielded. Maligned, misunderstood, he hated his enemies and constantly opposed in his great work to which he had been called of God, his indomitable will held him steadfast to his task. The watchword of all progressives is to forget the past, to live upon the attainments of the past rather than to emancipate ourselves from its tradition, live in the present and in the future.

"The Chinese ports and interior were approached by the gospel of Jesus Christ in the year 1600, when the first great port of the world became free, and the gospel was sent to those who so long had been the slaves of darkness, who denied the power of God, their Master."

Central America were opened to the entrance of the gospel. Unconsciously the Indians and colored men of the world were instruments in God's hand for preparing a highway in the desert, a path in the wilderness.

"There are mountains of problems;

there are foothills in the church to be cleared; there are men who have no right to do what we are not called upon to do; to the salvation of the heathen; that mission is a failure; there is unbelief, indifference, failure to accept the promises of Christ; the marching orders of the Lord.

lationships; there are mountains of problems to be removed; there are foothills in the church to be cleared; there are men who have no right to do what we are not called upon to do; to the salvation of the heathen; that mission is a failure; there is unbelief, indifference, failure to accept the promises of Christ; the marching orders of the Lord.

"We do not believe in the unexpected illumination of the Church to do exactly what is desirable, but I am thoroughly convinced that the unrestricted immigration that comes over the Atlantic is as disastrous to this country as the one from across the Pacific. We do not need the Chinese vote, for there is more than the Italian and Hungarian votes come from the lower strata of European society and a factor that ought to be dealt with. And yet the outlook is full of comfort to the church, as far as God's promises to Israel."

World's Workers---Achievements of Capital, Labor and Production.

THE BIGGEST LOCOMOTIVE.

THE world's biggest and most powerful locomotive, an American engine built at Schenectady, by the American Locomotive Company, is on its way to the West, where it will haul heavy freight on Santa Fe's road. It represents the highest achievement in locomotive design, the most notable effort of American builders to produce an engine of enormous tractive power adapted to the needs of our transcontinental lines.

After a bold venture in massiveness and service tests in the mountains of the trans-Missouri, it attracted the attention of some architects of the world. The builders of England and the continent judged us unsafe when we passed the 100-ton mark, but here a monster, weighing without the engine tender, 130 tons---twenty-one times as much as the historic De Witt Clinton.

From the end of the tender to the point of the pilot, this giant of the rails measures 70 feet. Two engines of this size, in their complete form, would be about as high as the other would be a boat nearly as high as a West Virginia.

The top of the stanchion stockade is set feet above the ties, and to this height does the dome reach that its top is to be taken off before the locomotive can pass under any bridge between Schenectady and Buffalo. The massive boiler is perched so high in the air that a tall man can stand in it.

The dome is thirteen feet above the driving-wheel axle, the center of gravity is very low, several inches below the center of the driving wheels, giving it a great stability.

The great sulphite "digesters"---monsters weighing without the engine 200,000 barrels, in 1898 thirty-six works produced 15,600,000 barrels; in 1898, 50,000 barrels; in 1899, 60,000 barrels; in 1900, 70,000 barrels; in 1901, 80,000 barrels, more than the total domestic product and the imports combined in 1898. The average rate of growth of the product of the mills has been over 40 per cent. It was over 50 per cent. from 1899 to 1900. The value of the product in 1900 was $9,280,000. The total imports of sulphite in 1900 were over 2,300,000 barrels, and it is certain that the imports have remained practically constant for the eleven years, including 1900. The total consumption of Portland cement in 1900 was over 16,000,000 barrels, and it is over 16,000,000 barrels greater than in 1899. The price fell from $1.42 per barrel in 1899 to 75 cents in 1900.

High-grade Portland cement is manufactured more cheaply in this country than in Europe, is sold nearly a dollar less, and is shipped to all parts of the world.

On these ten drivers, which gave the name of "steam" to this type of engine, the Americans have made a great advance.

The pony truck carries only four tons, much of the weight of the engine and cylinder castings being distributed among the driving wheels and driving shafts.

On a level track, 680 could haul a train of 100 and a half tons, carrying the harvest of 16,000 barrels of wheat, or 16,000 barrels of 55,000 pounds, that is, one-half that amount of dead weight.

The great wheel base gives 900 tons of tractive hauling power. Ten individual driving wheels, nearly as tall as a man, and so heavily counterbalanced, are so nearly balanced that they do not turn for lack of weight.

On these ten drivers, which gave the name of "steam" to this type of engine, the Americans have made a great advance.

The pony truck carries only four tons, much of the weight of the engine and cylinder castings being distributed among the driving wheels and driving shafts.

TO SAIL THE SEAS.

England's Shipping.

Sir John Glover, chairman of the Lloyd's Register Committee, has estimated the increase in tonnage for half a century past in tonnage and in size of British cargo ships. The comparison is interesting in view of the present situation of ocean freight rates. It shows that, although the number of vessels has increased, the tonnage has steadily increased, and that the new tonnage floated since 1880, fully up to the present, is about one-half of my dead weight.

The great rate is sixty square feet per ton, and the new tonnage is built up to the same standard. The new tonnage is 20 per cent. in the ten years ending 1880, 22 per cent. in the ten years ending 1890, 23 per cent. in the ten years ending 1890, 24 per cent. in the ten years ending 1890, 25 per The sale of admission tickets for the Choral Symphony concerts at Simpson Auditorium Wednesday afternoon and evening, opens in Bartlett's Music Store this morning at 9 o'clock. Two hundred extra chairs have been provided to help meet the demand for seats.

Human Target Complaints.

Charles Dangerous, a negro, reported at the Police Station last evening that another member of his race fired him in the back. He was followed by colored men at the corner of Second and Los Angeles streets. Dangerous, who was uninjured, did not know his assailant.

Charged With Robbery.

Bert Hudgings, a negro, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging robbery, sworn to by D. Blakemore, attorney, negro, of No. 818 Main street. Hudgings claims that when he was drunk Wednesday night, Hudgings was attacked him and robbed him of $40. Hudgings denies the charge.

Chief Elton Goes North.

Chief Paul Elton leaves at 4 o'clock this morning for San Francisco, where he will attend a meeting of the police officials of California, called for the purpose of effecting a State organization. The principal object is to establish a bureau for the identification of criminals. The Chief will be absent a week or ten days.

Stolen Cutlery Found.

A large amount of cutlery which was stolen from a florist shop and general store at Fillmore was found yesterday in a box car on a siding near Encino Park, by Harvey E. of the 50th Street police. There were 120 knives, worth $1 each, nine razors, and some razer strips in the bundle, which had been concealed in an ice box in the car. The valuable find was turned over to the police.

Rainy Nearly as Much.

The sudden storm, which passed over the city early yesterday morning, increased the season's rainfall by .36 of an inch, making the total for the season 10.51 inches. After 5 o'clock yesterday morning, .25 of an inch fell, and by 9 o'clock the rain had stopped. Afternoon, the sky was overcast, and there were indications of more rain, but later in the day the skies cleared. In other parts of the county the rain was much heavier.

"Belled" a Drunk.

V. Martinez was arrested yesterday by Deputy Constable Botello, with grand larceny. Botello saw Martinez, a Mexican, a drunken Mexican, into the Third-street tunnel and there go through his pockets. When the officers approached, Martinez showed a fight but was overpowered and taken to the Police Station with his victim. Martinez had taken $1.45 from the drunken man, but had overheard the gold. Ladillo was booked for drunkenness.

Caught With the Goods.

Charles Desmond and Walter Scott were arrested on suspicion last evening by Detectives Talamantes and Smith. On Desmond's person was found a watch that cost him $100 Saturday from the room of T. H. Oberdorfer, a waiter, at No. 491 North Los Angeles street. The waiter, however, was booked against Desmond. Scott and Desmond were in the Police Court not long ago, charged with robbing the city, but were discharged because of insufficient evidence.

Stole a Coat and Ran.

John Gorman, a tramp, stole a coat yesterday from a room in a Rose-street house and was leaving the place when the officers entered. He was covered by a man who was in the room when the thief entered, but who was unaware of the visit. Gorman was passed by the officers, but was captured on Central avenue. He was taken to the City Jail, and shortly after, Paul, a member of his gang, was arrested on suspicion.

Big Crowd at Chutes.

A large number of people took advantage of the first clear Sunday for two weeks, and made the day a pleasure for themselves and the work management. Between 200 and 300 people were on the grounds yesterday afternoon, taking in the various attractions. The chutes were the most popular, and the two hours were estimated to carry passengers during the day, did not perform, and will not be running for the latter part of the week, owing to the delay in getting the new chutes. There was a balloon ascension, though, and many other interesting events to give enjoyment to the eager throng.

They Smell to Heaven.

Considerable complaint has been caused recently by reason of the odor of onions that floats up Main street from the line of houses that line the street overlooking. It begins on North Main street, with great vigor, and gathering strength, assails the nostrils of the people in the street, even as far as Fifth street. Van Nuys and Westminster Hotel guests are troubled with the same, and many stores and houses in the two hours a number of kicks have been registered. There have been so many complaints from various quarters, that steps are to be taken to abate the nuisance.

New Passenger Station.

A passenger station for the Pacific Electric Company, probably, will be built on the property of the Pacific Electric Company, 10th and Main streets, recently purchased by H. E. Huntington. It will be built on four stories high, and will front on 21 feet on Main street, and have a depth of 90 feet. The general offices of the Pasadena Electric and Los Angeles Railway companies will be accommodated on the top floor, and the ground floor will be used for the passenger traffic of the Pasadena, Long Beach, Monrovia, and other interurban roads now operating. A large entrance will be made from Main street into Sixth street and into Los Angeles street, and all cars will enter through the house, not stopping in the street.

Gymnastics at Classical School.

The English and Classical School at No. 269 North Union avenue was the scene of a reception Saturday night to the friends of the institution, which was arranged by the students. The meeting gave an opportunity to exhibit their gymnastic feats. A band drill was executed by eight boys of the school, and the middle school, 10 to 12, high jump contest. Ralph Rice carried off the honors. A series of jig steps followed, carried out by a squad of girls, after which a general performance was given in which Messrs. Gilhespy, Sherry and Yenberry were the contestants. A club-swinging exhibition was heartily enjoyed, and the gymnastics ended with the building of human pyramids. The affair closed with a dance.

More Rituals.

A. H. S. Perkins, the fraternal and ritualistic master of this city, has completed a two-day ritual for the New Haven, Ct., and received contracts this week for new rituals for the American Legion, the Knights of Columbus at Philadelphia, and a new society to be organised soon in Los Angeles, in which two experienced insurance men, Mr. and Mrs. Springfield, are the prime movers.

Double Disappearance.

James C. Rogers, No. 713 Hinman avenue, Evanston, Ill., is prosecuting a search by an endless chain of circulators for Miss Florence A. Elly Rogers, who disappeared from Evanston last July. The woman, who is 40 years old, was long gone, and left him on record with a man for her nephew. She lured him away, and nothing has been heard from him since. The last-known relative of the woman is a liberal reward for information leading to their restoration.

To Build Churches.

The semi-annual meeting of the board of church extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was held yesterday in the First Methodist Church. This board passes on applications for grants from churches desiring aid in building, and has jurisdiction over the territory of Southern California and Arizona. At this meeting the subject of extending the work of the board was discussed.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.
NEW SALT CORPORATION.
SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES
SAN DIEGO, Feb. 8.—Incorporation papers were filed this afternoon for the Western Salt Works Company, with a capital stock of $200,000, $60,000 of which has already been subscribed. E. R. Babcock and Graham E. Babcock are the principal shareholders, each having put in $25,000. The company is organized under the laws of both the United States and Mexico. The old salt works at Point Loma, near the head of the bay, have been purchased, and the work of making salt in the huge vats by evaporation will be resumed. The company is formed because of the recent increase in the price of salt.

EDUCATIONAL TRIP ABROAD.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the State Normal School this afternoon, President Black was given leave of absence from April 15 to August 1, to make a trip to Europe, during which he will visit Oxford and Cambridge universities and other institutions of learning. Dr. R. M. Powers and W. R. Guy were named as delegates to the meeting of the joint board of Normal trustees in Los Angeles April 11.

PECULIAR CARE.

On trial in the Superior Court is a peculiar suit, in which C. F. Davis is plaintiff and the Diamond Carriage Company defendant. It is alleged that Davis was employed by the company to care for his horse. He stood a carriage and was washing one of the long panes of glass, when a section fell out. It hit him well through the neck, and some ligaments of the neck were severed. He tried to learn the barber trade soon after, but was unable to do any work since, and thinks he was damaged $10,000, for which he has sued.

SAN DIEGO BREVITIES.
Mr. Marshall Cook, in a trial before Justice Anderson on the charge of cattle stealing, this being his second preliminary examination. He was held to answer to the Superior Court before on this charge, but owing to technical fault in the indictment it appeared in the higher court, he was dismissed and rearrested.

Mr. C. D. Brockway, of National City, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon, as the result of being run into by a bicyclist. She was about to board a car, when the man on the bicycle approached. Unconscious, which way to step, she got directly in his way. They went down together. Her right arm was broken, and the glass shattered just below the hip joint, and as she is more than 60 years of age, the doctors fear that there is some question whether the bones will knit.

Secretary John Willis Baer of the Christian Endeavor Union had returned from a tour of his series of three tours of the West, and will rest here for a week.

The Thomas ship, discharging this morning, and cleared for San Francisco.

BROCKWAY IN TROUBLE.

Prosecuted in San Francisco by a man to whom he sold box of Magic Powder.

Charles R. Brockway, a spiritualist medium who gathered in hosts of "easy ones" in Los Angeles some months ago, has been made notorious in a lawsuit in San Francisco.

Henry Emery charged him with fraud because Brockway despoiled him of $100 in cash and a valuable box of powder and psychic belt, a box of ointment and various developing settings, all of which were to make a full-fledged psychist. Emery said:

"I wanted to prove that I would become his pupil he would soon make me a world-renowned medium," said Emery to a reporter in San Francisco. "I wanted him to meet another person with such intuitive mediumistic powers."

Emery willingly parted with $10 for a small quantity of thirteen parts of ambergris to one of young sulphur—to be burned in a dark room along with certain incantations. "Getting this a legitimate income, while his development he did not begrudge the money."

Now did he hesitate to pay Brockway $20 for a secret belt in which he repaid $20 to his victim, and when he handed down to Brockway from the Egyptian Pharaohs. To be sure, neither the powder nor the money made any perceptible progress. But that was easily explained by Brockway, who said that now was the time for the precious moment of realization of what he alone knew the ingredients. So Emery paid $10 worth of that.

He had agreed to pay him $50," said Emery, "but when I put $7 of that amount was paid and I failed to feel the first mediumistic thrill I sent for him and demanded my money back. He never refused to return it, but he admitted to me that he was a fraud and faker without the powers he had claimed."

The case against Brockway was dismissed, whereupon Brockway announced his determination to sue the man who had him arrested for damages in the sum of $10,000.

BY CAMEL CARAVAN.

Wealthy New York Lawyer is Here and Intends to See Remote Corners of the Earth.

With a unique two years' tour of the world's ways now in progress, as his hobby—his avocation, Benjamin J. Gould, a wealthy lawyer of New York City, is spending a few days at the Angelus prior to his sailing for the Orient. You can see him as he goes to see some of the remote corners. The feature of his trip is to be a pilgrimage over the great mountains of India by mule and camel caravan into barbaric Afghanistan.

Just a little jaunt by myself," said the venturesome New York last night after visiting his Coronado and your Pasadena. I intend to sail from San Francisco for Honolulu. A week or two, then a month inside and out, a little to China, the Malay peninsula, the Philippines and a thorough tour of the interior of India. I have English friends there, and will try to be with them, perhaps in Northern India I expect to start the most interesting part of the trip. There I will join a trading caravan, and then go some of the great passes of the Indian into Afghanistan. From there I expect to cross the Persian Desert into Persia and then into the Hindu Kush. Skirting the coast of Asia Minor, I may go into Southern Europe through Turkey and Greece, or I may prolong my trip by braving off to Siberia, and then back into Europe through Russia. That part is a long way off yet. From London I will return to the old trading ground in New York.

Mr. Gould has already trotted the globe pretty thoroughly, and is familiar with the byways of Europe, Africa and North and South America.

Our Annual Clean-up

Grand final clearance of all the short lots and broken lines. You don't want to miss it. Many Monday Magnets—little prices and big values that you'd expect only at Parmelee's.

Imported White Enameled Ware

Final clean-up of the Finest Cooking Utensils made. Perfect pieces—and the prices are fully a third under value.
